Message

In this year of the stern demand, which this war is making on all of us, the graduates of Queens will go out into many fields of national service. Some will make their contribution in the armed forces. Others will find their place in the industries on which the armed forces depend. Still others will take their place in the professional and business life which must go on if our civilization is to endure. The paths will be in many directions, and it may be in many countries. One thing will tie them together in bonds which endure and the progress of time cannot break, and one thing alone—loyalty to Queens, and warm memories of the days spent in and about the limestone halls, will endure with the years, and grow stronger across the vista of time.

It is for this reason that the Festival will prove to be a potent reminder. It will bring back vividly the feelings, the memories, the joy of living in these four college years. It will, I trust, bring back as well the memory of the way in which an understanding of the deeper values of life grew into a plan to make of living something very much worth while.

God, courage and strength and faith be yours for the part that you are each to play!

THE HISTORY OF QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY

The Church was for a thousand years the main patron of education. It founded Salerno and Paris, Oxford and Cambridge, Harvard and Yale. It brought into existence all the Universities in Ontario. Queen's was founded by the Presbyterian Church of Canada in connection with the Church of Scotland, but never had any religious tests for students except in Theology. Denominational control was gradually lessened by successive Acts of Parliament and was completely removed in 1912 when a Dominion Act extensively changed the original Charter.

1840 Incorporation of a college by the provincial legislature.

1841 ROYAL CHARTER granted by Queen Victoria on October 16 establishing "Queen's College at Kingston."

1842 FIRST SESSION opened March 7 with two professors and ten students in ARTS and in THEOLOGY. This was the beginning of University teaching in Ontario. For eleven years the college occupied rented buildings. The first was a frame house on Colborne Street. It still stands but is now brick-veneered.

1853 FIRST BUILDING owned by the College was "Summerhill", now used as residences for the Principal and two professors. Bought 1853; used for classes 1854-1870.

1854 MEDICINE was taught in an experimental session with twenty-three students. A faculty was formally established in 1855. From 1866 to 1892 it was an independent institution called The Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons; it was in down-town quarters from 1870 to 1880. It again became a Faculty in 1892. Women were admitted 1880-1882 but from 1883 to 1893 received separate instruction in the Women's Medical College. Then medical education for women was discontinued because available elsewhere.

1856 Alma Mater Society organized; incorporated by letters patent 1898.

1861 Faculty of Law organized; suspended 1864; revived 1880; no lectures given after 1894 though for a number of years graduates in certain courses in Arts could obtain the degree of LL.B. by passing examinations in specified law subjects.

1870 WOMEN admitted for separate instruction in a few Arts subjects; admitted to some regular Arts classes in 1876 and to all in 1878. Admitted to Medicine (see above) 1880-1893.

1893 Queens' College Journal began publication; in 1893 name changed to Queen's University Journal; in 1911 to Queen's Journal.

1878 Tentative beginnings of EXTRAMURAL WORK: under special circumstances candidates admitted to examinations without class attendance. In 1888 a regular EXTRAMURAL system was established.

1885 Summer sessions in Medicine began; they later became part of an extended winter session. In 1887 provision was made for summer classes in other subjects. A SUMMER SCHOOL in Science was established in 1894 and in 1898 other classes were added. The School was discontinued a few years later but was reorganized in 1910 and has been in continuous operation since.

1893 THE SCHOOL OF MINING AND AGRICULTURE was founded as an independent institution, supported by subscriptions, fees, and the Ontario Government. In 1916 it became part of the University as the FACULTY OF APPLIED SCIENCE.

1895 School of Veterinary Science founded; discontinued 1899.

1907 Faculty of Education established by the Ontario Government. It was discontinued in 1920 when the Ontario College of Education replaced faculties at Queen's and Toronto.

1894 Announcement of SCHOOL OF NAVIGATION 1894-95. Courses have been given annually since 1914.

1912 Complete separation from the Church under an Act of the Dominion Parliament. The name was changed to "Queen's University at Kingston". The Faculty of Theology became an independent but affiliated institution called QUEEN'S THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE.

1914 Courses in BANKING established in co-operation with the Canadian Bankers' Association.

1919 Courses in Commerce and Administration organized, leading to the degree of B.Com.; in 1937 name changed to SCHOOL OF COMMERCE.

1920 Courses in CHARTERED ACCOUNTANCY established in co-operation with the Ontario Institute of Chartered Accountants.

1937 INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS section organized in the School of Commerce—mainly for research

1941 CENTENARY Normal registration reduced by war. In 1938-39, the last pre-war year, it was as follows: Arts 217, Medicine 282, Science 644, Summer School 501, Extramural 1,275, Banking 611, Accounting 463, other non-degree courses 24. Total 4,717. The buildings number 33, and with land and equipment are worth $5,000,000; the endowment is over $4,000,000; the annual income is $871,000.

Such has been the growth of Queen's. In 1842, she rented from a house as her home. Today, thirty buildings, most of them of gray, Kingston limestone, worth more than $5,000,000, and set in a campus made additionally beautiful by stately trees and well-trimmed hedges.

IN MEMORIAM

Lieut.-Col. William Percy Wilgar, D.S.O., born Cobourg, Ontario, 1877; educated in the schools of Cobourg, entered Queen's in 1899, and graduated in 1903 with B.Sc. in mining engineering; railway engineer and locatation, division engineer, and assistant district engineer, 1903-14; professor of civil engineering at Queen's since 1914, and head of the department since 1939; served in World War with Canadian Engineers as captain, 1915, major, 1915, and lieutenant-colonel, 1917; commanded 10th Field Company, and 10th Battalion, C.E.F., from organization until 1919; A.D.C. to His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, from 1934 to 1935; officer commanding the Queen's University Contingent, Canadian Officers' Training Corps, 1932-34; member of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, and the Canadian Military Institute; president of the Canadian Rugby Union, 1931, and honorary president, 1932; president of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, 1933; director of the General Alumni Association since 1936, member of the Athletic Board of Control since 1923, member of the Union House Council, and a member of the University Senate; consulting engineer, Department of Highways of Ontario.

He died at Ottawa on August 3, 1940, and was there buried with every mark of respect and affection. To his wife and his namesake son who is on the teaching staff of the Department of English at the University of Texas, and to his relatives, the Tricarlar extends most heartfelt sympathy.

The month of October 1941, opened a remarkable page in the history of Queen's University Contingent of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps. With the Dominion engaged in the greatest struggle in world history, the desire of the male student body at the university to take military training leading to commissions on active service was very great. Membership in the contingent was restricted to those in physical category "A" who were sufficiently advanced in their academic courses to profit from this training. Even so the strength was increased by one-third, with over 550, all ranks, enrolled.

For instructional purposes the unit was divided into five arms: Artillery, Engineers, Infantry, Medicals and Signals. Under the experienced direction of the Officer Commanding, Lt-Col. R. O. Earl, and Lt-Col. D. M. Jennett, Chief Instructional Officer, the members of the contingent underwent a vigorous course of training in preparation for the examinations leading to commissions in the Active Army.

Almost equally important from a military viewpoint was the formation of the Auxiliary Battalion numbering over 400 men. Desiring to co-operate with the Department of National Defence to the fullest extent the university authorities determined to institute compulsory military training for every male student at the university 18 years of age or older, who was physically fit for such instruction. Experienced officers from the COTC took charge of the course which closely followed the syllabus of training laid down for men called up under the National War Services Act. The men demonstrated a marked degree of proficiency at the annual inspection held in March and received words of commendation from the District Officer Commanding, Brigadier L. Armstrong, OBE, on their efficiency and evident earnestness of purpose.

Increased facilities for military training were acquired by the contingent during the year. The Orderly Room was substantially enlarged in order to cope with the additional pressure of administrative work, while a Gymnasium was erected on the university campus to house the newly acquired leaping gun and tripod. This building also accommodates a miniature range table of a new type which was conceived by Major J. C. Cornish, Officer Commanding the Artillery Arm, and constructed by Cadet John Storer, Professor of Biology. The range table proved to be an immediate addition to the training equipment and aroused considerable interest among artillery officers throughout the Military District.

The members of the COTC and the Auxiliary Battalion have, during the past year, demonstrated that earnest desire to serve which has been one of the virtues of Queen's men in 1914-18. From the outbreak of the Second Great War to March 1941, over 30% Queen's men have volunteered for active service in every branch of the armed forces. A vast majority of these men were trained in the contingent and the unit takes justifiable pride in the number in which its members have broken the call of duty. That such contributions will not cease is amply illustrated by the fact that, since the outbreak of war, one-fifth of the total number of certificates in Military Qualifications awarded to members of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps throughout Canada have been bestowed to members of the Queen's University Contingent. There can be no question that these citizens will know their duty.

Queen's University is proud of the record of service of her sons who served with the Canadian Forces from 1914 to 1918. That such traditions live today and are gallantly upheld is shown by the gallantry and heroism of Lieut. J. M. S. Pether, C.C., who was the first Canadian officer to be awarded the coveted George Cross. This record is both an inspiration and an indication of what all other boys will do.

The Queen's War Aid Commission has entered into the second year of its existence with renewed strength. As sub-committee of the Alma Mater Society, it is carrying on enthusiastically the policy formulated at the beginning of the war to further Canada's war effort from the campus.

This is being achieved by bulking up a fund from which donations, such as those to the Red Cross Room and the Canadian Legion, are given. The successful Student Soldier Party was another of their projects. At present the aim of the Commission is to collect a sum large enough to maintain a field ambulance.

Proctor, looking far into the future of War Aid work, and campus anti-aircraft activities, and conditions from economic, faculty organizations have all been taken into the light.

The need with which this fund was conceived is evidence of the realization on the part of Queen's students that we are at war and that our efforts should be directed towards a vigorous patriotism.

WOMEN'S VOLUNTARY SERVICE FORCE

The Levana war effort has been directed largely to Red Cross activity, and the Queen's branch of the Red Cross Society opened its workshop in the Old Arts Building early in October 1941. The executive is as follows: President, Margaret Smith; Vice-President, Alice Bertram; Secretary, Treasurer, Phyllis Rogers; Conveners, Margaret Smith, Ann Matwidiuk, Joan Etherington, Jessie Markes, Sylvia Rawlin, Jean Bax, Ann Plant, Phillis Archibald, Alice Scott, Barbara McWilliam; Supply Convener, Jean Cornichall. Work for the first term was voluntary, and a considerable number of knitted articles, quilts for refugee children, and personal property bags were turned in to the Kingston Red Cross.

At the Levana meeting of January 15th, 1941, it was voted that there be, for every member of Levana, one hour of work voluntarily given in the Red Cross room. The result of this move has been a great increase in both the numbers and variety of articles completed.

The funds for the activities have been contributed by various organizations or the patriots, notably the War Aid Committee and the Levana Council, as well as by individual donations.

On behalf of the Queen's Red Cross, the executive wishes to thank all who have helped in the work, directly or indirectly, and especially Dr. A. V. Douglas who has shown a most active and helpful interest at all times.

HON. NORMAN MCLEOD ROGERS

Born in 1894 at Amherst, N.S., Norman McLeod Rogers was educated at Acadia University and Oxford. He served as professor of history at Acadia, and in 1927 he became private secretary to Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Two years later he took the chair of political science at Queen's and in 1938 was the unanimous choice for the honorary position as rector.

Elected to Parliament in 1936, he became Minister of Labor, which position he ably held until he was promoted to Minister of National Defence in September of 1939.

The tragic accident at Newtonville, Ontario, occurred while Mr. Rogers was flying from Ottawa to address a gathering at Toronto.

DR. I. GORDON BOGART

Dr. I. Gordon Bogart, Med '01, died at his Kingston home January 12, 1941. Born 1868, he studied Medicine at Queen's and, after graduation, did further work in London, Edinburgh, Chicago and Philadelphia as well as at the Moyo Clinic and Johns Hopkins Hospital.

He joined the Medical Faculty in 1904 and continued, with a seven-year break from 1912-1919, until 1935, when he retired.

On January 21st, 1941, after a brief illness "Cappy" passed away. As a graduate of Cambridge he came to Canada in 1912 to continue his ministry with the church. The Great War saw him in service overseas as chaplain. Returning to Canada he carried on until 1932 as clergyman and lecturer at Queen's. From 1932 to 1938 his ministry took him from Queen's to various Ontario towns.

Since 1932 he had served Queen's as lecturer in physics and mathematics. As member of the Students' Forum, and former figure-head of the Union, he was popular with the student body. He enjoyed the confidence of many undergraduates and his advice was eagerly sought.

REV. JOHN O. WATTS

John Clifford Farry was a fifth year medical student who entered Queen's from Parkdale Collegiate, Toronto. His gentlemanly qualities made him very popular among his fellow students who elected him secretary of the Alma Mater Society last fall. Though an intercollegiate swimmer and hockey wrestler, debater, journalist, mathematician, and astronomer, John still found time to do scholarship.

After death on December 12th, 1941, leaving a widow at Queen's and a few friends and friends that will be hard to get. All will miss him deeply for his smiling.

Canada's contribution to Britain's great struggle against the Axis powers is Europe is only gaining momentum. But this new recharged warfare with the advance in tactics of offensive power planes, bombers, and heavy tanks, and the corresponding our universities thus far have not been depleted of their undergraduate as in the past war. Nevertheless, the academic year 1940-41 has brought serious changes to the Queen's campus. Wholesale military training either in the COTC or through the British Army holds the place of greatest prominence, while the activities of extracurricular have been a decided gap in the extra-curricular calendar.

One of the highlights of the year has been the appointment of the Earl of Athlone, Governor General of Canada, as rector of Queen's. The Alma Mater Society was highly honoured to be able to add his name to the distinguished list of men who have held this office.

With Levana taking the lead, Queen House in Town Hall became a centre and the fact that hundreds enjoyed these evenings is ample testimony to its popularity. The introduction of a student skating night in the Arena was a further contribution to the extensive undergraduate pleasure.

Much routine business was dealt with by the executive, which proved to be a conscientious, hardworking group who found it a pleasure to serve on an executive student body.

In order to commemorate the services of Queen's students and graduates in World War I—a building was erected in 1928—the Students' Memorial Union. It took the form of a club to which all male students of the university are members.

Here the students enjoy many privileges, social and recreational. The use of the Common and Memorial Rooms, cafeteria, billiard and ping pang rooms, and committee rooms is enjoyed by the students from all faculties.

It is only fitting here that a deep tribute be paid the late Cal. Wilgar. To him we owe all, for it was through his hard, persistent work that the Union came into being. One can hardly express how greatly he will be missed by both the Union and Faculty. His photograph, gifted by Mrs. Wilgar, now hangs in the Common Room.

The Supreme Court of the Alma Mater Society is the supreme tribunal of the student body. Although appointed by the AMS executive it, decisions cannot be overruled by that body.

The Court is responsible for the punishment of all offences committed by a member of the AMS or by any organization subject to the jurisdiction of the AMS. These offences include all violations of the regulations and governing laws of the Alma Mater Society as well as disorderly conduct. The Court also investigates all claims for damages made against the AMS or its members and decides who will pay.

During this year besides dealing with minor student misbehavior, the Court investigated the charges made to students' bedrooms during the Arts House renovation, found out whether the cost of the damage between the two faculties.

The year 1941 finds Queen's University an ever-representative source of Canada's potential leadership, fully conscious of the ideal facing the nation. The staff of the Tricolor has striven herein to compile a vivid and enduring record of this fact.

Queen's students, clearly realizing their responsibilities to their country, to their Empire and to the human race, have acted accordingly. Though the entire male student body is of necessity taking military instruction, two-thirds of this body has voluntarily joined the Canadian Officers' Training Corps. Many Queen's women have entered in a Capital Voluntary Service Corps. The students have either participated in Red Cross work, or devoted what time they could to first aid, first-aiding, letter-writing and typing.

Too, the University has instituted a Council War War Commission. The Commission, through the Army Women's Society, has placed a tax on student amusement and voted to provide the Government with material assistance. The Tricolor has endeavored, in the time portion of the book, to mirror, as suggestively as possible, the former War Effort.

Queen's '41 graduates, it is to be hoped, will find the Tricolor a tangible force in preserving for them the significant memories of the University. A wide variety of activity, both in work and in recreation, has been included in the College Life section in order that as many former graduate and under-graduate would be satisfied.

We, of the Staff, wish to express our gratitude to the members of the faculty, to the photographers, to the writers and to the student body as a whole for their very commendable contributions to this publication. The Tricolor owes to them, in a large measure, whatever credit it might seem to possess.

Throughout another busy college year the scribes have laboured to meet the deadline and forty names have been "put to bed" on schedule.

Many of the questions posed by the war were threshed out in the Journal's pages. The ways and means of more effective student war aid, the student-soldier relations in Kingston, the promotion of "simple and inexpensive pleasures", the stimulation of student interest in war finance, the Powell-Simon report, world affairs, the progress of the war, and peace aims were given extensive coverage.

Once again the scribes offered themselves as sparring partners for the Levana Polemists on the war lanes, but the "Horizontal Wandering" left a sore decision. The campus war effort benefited materially from this exhibition and a successful annual bazaar. Ball also contributed to the war effort. The Journal actively supported other efforts to raise money, including the Arts' corsage plan, the walk-out, the Campus Frolics, and the Drama Guild production.

At the time of writing, the many difficulties faced and the small success achieved are fading into the background, but the happy cooperation with the entire staff has always been one of the Journal's traditions and will remain in our thoughts as a highlight at our at Queen's. And so we write "32" to a memorable year, with a hearty "thank you" to the entire staff.

Born at Kincardine, Ont. . . . educated at Kincardine High School . . . attended Queen's . . . later University of Chicago . . . began teaching . . . high school . . . returned to Queen's as professor of math. . . . head of the department . . . dean of the Arts Faculty.

The Dean's Message

The members of the graduating class of 1941, and the 1941 issue of the Tricolor, go out from the university together into a troubled world. There a death struggle is going on between freedom and the blessings associated with it, on the one side, and treachery and lust for power with their associated evils, on the other. The university graduate, above all others, must throw the powers of a trained and disciplined mind into the fight so that at the close of the day freedom may stand triumphant.

The price of a college training is not all paid when the financial obligations are finally met. There is left still a life long debt which can be paid only by service and sacrifice, through the years, to that human society which made the training possible.

The graduates of this year, following those who have gone before, will adjust their service to conditions as they find them. These conditions will be new; but trained men and women will have the initiative to meet them.

HISTORY OF ARTS '41

Green as was the freshman class way back in '38, and disorganized and bewildered as all freshman groups are, the independence and downright stubbornness of us freshman must have been very galling to our earnest sophomores. For not even Al Brady and his henchman could keep some of the more effervescent spirits in the new year from bursting in the portals and windows of Bon Righ and slightly terrifying the inmates of that institution; nor from joyously removing the back porch of one of the apparently less popular landladies of Kingston for the annual bonfire; nor from purloining park benches for the same fire—no, it took the Kingston police and the local jail to incarcerate one of the most famous members of our year, Bill Skidmore, and, incidentally, the whole freshman year to free him from bondage. Typical of this rather noisy year was its executive, presided over by Phil Stonhouse. Only one saw fit to return the next year to carry on her duties, Marg. Cross.

Perhaps it is not so strange, then, that Arts '41 should become, under the presidency of G. C. Howitt, one of the most capable and formidable of sophomore years. The freshmen were truly crushed under the wary vigilance of 'Red' Howitt and his carefully selected gang. Freshman parades in town and in the stadium were orderly and decorous for the most part, except when Arts felt one of the other faculties needed a lesson.

The Junior year saw "Gib" Howitt again president of '41, with a capable executive to assist him—Ed Barks, Phil Grandjean, Joan Welch, Edna Cohrs, and Mary Naughton. Relieved of its responsibility towards the freshmen, the year began to look to itself and to see how it could be of greater use to the University. Its members began to take a greater interest in some of the more serious aspects of college life—drama guild, debating union, study groups, conferences, faculty societies, to derive a philosophy, to find out just what Queen's meant for them, and what they would lose, and at the same time take with them, when they left.

As Seniors, the full realization of what was ours, and of our university's part in our country's effort has come, slowly, it is true, to dawn upon us. We have given up intercollegiate sports, but in our fellowship in COTC and civility, work and in interfaculty competition, and in spite of much grumbling, we have gained much. Many of the less desirable aspects of faculty rivalry, often a few violent outbreaks have been done away with.

As a year, perhaps Arts '41, cannot not to have been terribly athletic. In the season of '37-'38 '41 captured the inter-year hockey title, in company with us, Levana '41 won the same title among the girls. If not outstanding in inter-year competition, Arts '41 has produced a good many of Queen's best senior athletes. Ab Miller and Jim Neilson in hockey, Don Carty in track, Gus Edwards and Terry Galt in football, Les McDonald in intercollegiate chess, George Selby, Bill Lawrence in boxing.

At last year's annual regatta in Algonquin, for Queen's, not a little of his success was due to members of Arts. Larry Blackie was on the team which won the intercollegiate polo team tournament, who had held it for seven years. Among the two-year study for Charles Brown were his books which were successful in exchange debates with Princeton and St. Lawrence Universities.

Levana '41 in its graduating year has contributed the president who conducted the more important of the girls activities, Margaret Crain, President of the Levana Society, and a good successful Levana candidate in the election of J. H. Francis Howard, President of the L.A.U. of St. John's. President of

The more wrong thinking there is in the world around us the greater is the urgency of the challenge to each one of us to play our part in the world, doing right by, and treating, fellow men the barrier of hate that ultimate human decency and kindness will prevail in our community and national life and in the councils of mankind.

The Principal's Message . . .

As a matter of history the Universities both on this continent and in the older lands have been the children of the Christian Church. It is not otherwise with Queen's. She was founded by a church and had as one, though not the only one, of her tasks the training of ministers. She has expanded far beyond the dreams of her founders, but has always retained the marks of her origin. For a hundred years a steady, though not a large stream of trained Christian men has gone out from her to enrich the Christian leadership of the community. This year ten graduates go out to this work, the largest number for many years. They have already given a good account of themselves in University and College work, and in practical service on different mission fields of the Church. We send them out in confidence that they will be a credit to their Alma Mater and a noble addition to the forces which made for righteousness. They go out in difficult days; but when men of the future look back on these times they will see how courage and faith rose high to meet deadly menace.

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

Queen's sends you forth, her most noble class in theology, to begin your ministry in a very troubled world. You will be called to share the burden of putting things right again. Men will look to you for wise counsel and initiative in bringing order out of the chaos of human affairs. You face great and urgent problems with new calls to responsibility which give you a unique opportunity for sympathy, understanding of other people, and for hard thinking about the world of men.

Our late beloved Father-in-law, the Reverend J. O. Wright, has set the goal for you: "A graduated youth, with clarity of mind, as valuable as [his] and a natural gift for following. Goodness is not enough; soundness of mind is not enough; earnestness and awareness are not enough. All these together are necessary to give leadership in the greatest Cause and human society, the Christian Church."

*"Go out into the darkness and let your hand touch the hand of God
That shall be better than light and safer than any precious gem."*

The Acting Director's Message

The courses in Commerce and Administration offered by Queen's University attained their majority last year, having been first established in 1919. Commerce graduates of Queen's are now widely scattered throughout Canada and the United States and fill positions of responsibility with banks, insurance companies, financial and industrial organizations. Many of these earlier graduates, representing the companies by whom they are employed, are returning to Queen's each year to interview members of the graduating class—another evidence of the continuing interest of Queen's Alumni in Queen's and Queen's men.

You are graduating at a time when the disorganization in commerce and industry brought about by war conditions is placing new demands upon management. Key men are being taken from business for special duties—military, governmental and in connection with the production of munitions and other war supplies.

Courses in Commerce were established at Quinn's in 1912 but it was not till ten years later that the Commerce Club was founded. Since that time the organization has grown in size and in scope of activities until last year the peak membership of 100 was reached.

The highlight of this year's activities was undoubtedly the address given by Dr. Macmillan at a luncheon gathering of close to ninety students and professors. Other industrial and financial leaders spoke at Club meetings, among them being Mr. M. Perinval, Commerce graduate from Quinn in 1932. Mr. Perinval spoke at problems confronting Commerce and Arts graduates in entering business. It is in this way that the Club serves its members most, for by bringing them into contact with business men of experience the students are meeting the inevitable problems facing graduates.

Arthur Lewis Clark

Born in Worcester, Mass. . . . educated at schools of Worcester, B.Sc. (Worcester Polytechnic Institute), Ph.D. (Clark), University of Leyden, Holland . . . professor of physics, Bates College . . . F.R.S.C. . . . member National Research Council . . . dean, Faculty of Applied Science, Queen's.

The Dean's Message

Science '41 goes out into a world torn by war as did '40 a year ago. It has been said more than once that the present war is an engineers' war. It is however no fault of engineers and scientists that such a war exists but rather the responsibility must be laid on politicians which may mean that we all are in some measure responsible. If engineers have provided the weapons and other agents of destruction they are not responsible for their use. Indeed it is possible that if engineers were directing the policies of governments there would be no such war. In any event we depend on the engineers and scientists more now than ever before to provide the means for combating the evil forces abroad on the world and the members of the graduating year may take pride in the fact that their training may give them opportunities for real help in the struggle. Afterward they may have an important part to play in the organization of society so that the causes of war may be fewer.

HISTORY OF SCIENCE '41

With a mingling of regret, wonder for the future, and yet a feeling of relief, Science '41 finds its future at Queen's nearing completion.

Shades of Marion! All too short these four years have been! Although our members have suffered considerably at the hands of exacting mathematicians and physicists, the spirit of '41 has lived on—through the raid on Ban Righ and the ensuing threat of expulsion, through years when Queen's gridiron football were at a low ebb, and through the many-gory battles with the lowly Arts men.

From British Columbia, from Nova Scotia, from Manitoba and from Ontario, we gathered. In the fall of '39, and with very little money and in few material contributions to the A.H.S., managed to give a chance to the University of Toronto, under the guiding hand and controlling influence of "Poppy" McKeown and his crew.

Let our president, Jim Gaultight, set track upon the brow, which was to be followed by many more championships in track and field, athletic events. This last term was also marked by a belated return of Freshman Regulations to Queen's.

and a successful (as far as the A.M.S. was concerned) raid on Ban Righ. Impoverished as we were by such harsh judgments, most of us did manage to scrape together enough to join the trek to Toronto for that never-to-be-forgotten playoff when Queen's brought home the football championship.

A sadly depleted year met again in the fall of '38. With Dunc Fraser as president we initiated the Frosh thoroughly and then partook of their hospitality at the Soph-Frosh banquet. Our year dance, convened by Jim McKibbin, topped all others in quality and attendance, and Science '41 took its place at the top of the ladder in that field. Our hockey, track, and soft-ball teams emerged as champions in inter-year competition.

Back once more as lordly Juniors—Frosh didn't exist, Sophs, necessary evils to be tolerated—Seniors, well they were just Science '40. The peculiar tendency of the year was towards work and more work but in spite of this, we managed to cop the softball championship. Under the capable convenership of Jack Mitchell, Science '41 instituted what promises to be an institution in the first Day-Ritchy Era. During the year we also gained valuable experience in putting across memorable year parties.

Our final year! A successful year since our first year party which defies all superlatives. In spite of further depletion of ranks through the efforts of the Faculty and Hitler, we continued to be outstanding in all phases of sport. Deprived of intercollegiate sports, and burdened with the extra work of military training, we entered the home stretch. Harvey

Marshall covered the Annual All Home which maintained the traditional high standard of an education. Indeed it was a fitting climax before all existing western world.

Perhaps the most regret would be in order as we say our "Au Revoir" but no, we must hold our heads high to the world. It has been pleasant to meet, we are sorry to part. It is our earnest desire that we may all engineer and Queen's men grow wistfully at the first placed in a

The Service Control Committee, an active sub-committee of the Engineering Society supervises the management of the Technical Supplies and the publication of the "Proceedings of the Engineering Society"; from the profits of the business it makes the major contribution towards the maintenance of the University Employment Service.

The policy of the Technical Supplies has been to share its profits with the student body by granting a discount on purchases. In spite of war taxes and an increase in exchange rates, this policy has been continued for the past two years at a reduced rate of discount, but it is expected that no coupons will be given after the end of this fiscal year.

A short time ago this Committee published a book on "Hydraulics", written by Prof. D. S. Ellis and sold exclusively by the Technical Supplies at slightly above cost. Already it has received the approval of the students taking this course as it is well written and is the only text of its kind available.

This has resulted in an increased demand for trained men in business. The increasing demand is apparent from the fact that representatives of business firms have come to Queen's to interview the members of the graduating class much earlier in the week than usual, and in most cases the firms that interview have more vacancies than usual to be filled.

Employment for all graduates would seem to be assured. Because of existing conditions, greater demand than usual will be made for the graduates of 1941. Your training will enable you to meet your new responsibilities to these new circumstances and to meet the resultant responsibilities with greatest confidence.

The staff extends to you its best wishes for success in your venture in the business world.

The Dean's Message

To the casual observer, the session now drawing to a close has passed without upheaval—even placidly. Work has apparently followed the usual pattern. Yet in the minds of students and staff, there have been present unrest, uncertainty and tension; for we have been living through eventful and fateful days and the wisest among us are unable to discern the future, save as through a glass, darkly.

The authorities in Government have wisely decided that students of Medicine should continue their courses largely undisturbed, and it is their further view that the essential part of a physician's training—a year's internship—should not only be permitted but indeed encouraged.

When all this has been done, the needs of the national situation will determine your course of action. That you will make a proper choice, I have no doubt.

With you go the best wishes of myself and my colleagues.

—F. Etherington.

HISTORY OF MEDS. '41

During the first three years at Cornell medical students pass through a period of "freshman" course during which they are taught the anatomy, physiology, biochemistry, histology, and embryology of the human body. The second half of the course is spent in learning the actual diagnosis, pathology, and treatment of the various conditions which require medical or surgical treatment. The student undergoing these two years through these stages, with the addition of what might be termed a "freshman phase".

As testimony the members of the class '41 were named for presentation. Most of the staff and many of the students will remember the points which they concentrated, and even the representation.

number of classes which were called for various unusual but opportune reasons. Unfortunately, however, many of the original members of the class were not permitted to continue when the smoke coincident with final examinations had blown away. To quote our most diminutive professor "Sixty went through the fire and thirty-six came out pure gold."

Our time as sophomores, juniors, and then upper classmen, has been fully occupied with lectures, demonstrations and clinics, which have all been calculated to allow us to make the most of our opportunities, and to obtain the greatest possible amount of knowledge and experience before graduation.

The advent of war during our student years has made the future uncertain, but we know that we have been well trained, and that wherever we go we shall not be ashamed to say, "I am a Queen's man."

IN MEMORIAM

KSG MD CM FACS FRCS (C)

SINCE the completion of the last Term, one of the outstanding members of the Medical Faculty was claimed by death. Charles O'Connor graduated from Queen's in Medicine in 1906 and after three years post-graduate study in New York, returned to practice in his native city, Kingston. His vigorous and brilliant practice brought him international fame as a specialist in diseases of the ear, nose and throat. Although he had every right to claim to be a master of his profession, he never ceased to be a student. During his career he made frequent trips to Europe in order that he might study at first hand new methods of treatment and new ideas in his chosen field.

He was a keen sportsman and often accompanied Queen's students on their out-of-town trips. It was while on such a trip that he was totally stricken.

As Associate Professor of Otolaryngology, Dr. O'Connor was highly respected and loved by his students. Indeed with them he too was a student.

The medical profession has a member of international fame, but the memory of the late C. E. O'Connor will continue to live long in the hearts and minds of the many thousands who benefited by his great skill. N.E.D.

"JAKE" EDWARDS

This year at Queen's has been one of many changes in the lives of the students, with athletic activities a controversial point in the curriculum rearrangements ever since the opening of the term.

The cancellation of intercollegiate meetings between university teams was a big disappointment to men and women who looked forward to the old thrills of seeing Queen's spirit embodied on the playing field once again; but there have been compensations too. We have had our representatives in football, hockey, and basketball, and though the student body as a whole has not been privileged in some cases to be spectators at the local games where our teams have competed, we do know and feel that the Tricolor flies as high as ever in the athletic world.

In place of the big weekends and cheering crowds, we have made a definite effort to get every man and woman at Queen's taking part in some athletic endeavor, whether it be such contact sports as football, or such recreative activity as golf or table tennis. In my opinion, the men have enjoyed intramural athletics more than ever before, because there have been more men taking part in them, because nearly every student can find some sport in which he can honourably participate at Queen's. The inclusion of carry-over sports such as golf, bowling, table tennis, swimming, tennis, and handball means that the graduating student can go out and continue to exercise and feel at home doing so; it means that the undergraduates can look forward to next year with a sense of enjoyment such as we have not had in the past, an enjoyment because of participation.

If such a program of athletic activity can release students from the thought of worldly cares even for a short time, if it can relax them from arduous study even temporarily, then Queen's can be proud of its athletics, as much as, if not more so than ever before.

With Senior and Intermediate rugby ruled out this year because of military training, the Juniors held the spotlight at the Stirling. Earning one of the best seasons ever, they ran through their six game schedule without a defeat. Playing in a Kingston ORFU League with R.M.C., K.C.V.I. and two military teams, Headquarters and Signaller, the Tricolor scored 55 points to 12 for the combined opposition and had their goal threatened only once.

This is the story the records tell:

In the curtain-raiser on October 5, the Juniors snatched a scrappy 5-0 win from R.M.C., outfighting a classier red team. A week later, Owen's wound up on the long end of a 13-0 score in a thriller with K.C.V.I. Then the Tricolor began to click. Sparked by Captain "Pepper" Martin and Bill Parry, they rode to a 12-0 victory over the Signaller, and polished off K.C.V.I. 14-1 on successive Saturdays. On November 2 they proved that their opening win over R.M.C. was no fluke, trouncing the Calets 17-

0 in a rain-soaked affair. A week later, when the championship was to be decided in a scrum-off with Headquarters, the Tricolor had a game left to play with R.M.C. Outweighed in the line and backfield, the fighting Tricolor made 50 yards in the home, backed up to their own goal line, and coasted to victory with knowledge Jim, when Parry anchored a short pass on the thirty-yard line and kicked his way down the side of the field through the whole H.Q. team for a bigger score. The contest moved and the next score was 5-5, but a week later R.M.C. came through with a clean victory over the Army, and the Tricolor had the silverware.

Forward to next year's Junior team look great says Coach Johnny Edwards, Army, who captured the Royal Food Trophy awarded to the outstanding junior football player. Martin, Barniera and Sharpe, the whole backfield, as well as line-man Timothy Parkinson, Irwin and Sterling can wear junior equipment again. All these boys are of senior calibre and played standard football this year.

So best wishes for next year and three cheers for Johnny, Edwards and his football squad for a fine record this year.

In spite of the cancellation of the Army League Assault at-Arms, which was scheduled to be held on the Oil Thigh battleground, the club refused not to take a defeatist attitude and soon gathered around it a sturdy group of fighters and prospect, and added new gloves, boxing trunks, and a light punching bag to its store of equipment.

The wars of the sack exchange were first begun on February 1st, when our boys out-punched the Vimy Signallers to a decisive loss of eight box-forties to two, with the five wrestlers making a clean sweep of their battle duty.

On February 11th, the boys entered the ring for the Q.W.A.C. Amateur Commission and staged a really exciting and vigorous exhibition of boxing and wrestling with opponents from Kogaluk, K.M.C., Narnan, Rogers, Ardmore, and Kingston City.

Interest in skiing at Queen's has grown 40% in the last three years. From the handful of enthusiasts who first organized the Club, membership has now grown to over 40 students and 100 faculty. Monthly three dollar dues provided for the regular ski season runs to the lake.

Increased support from faculty has made the Ski Club an interfaculty organization as well, receiving support from entire student body. "Ski Queen's" became a regular feature in the Journal keeping the members posted in Club activities.

This year a new form of entertainment was provided by movie night. Moving pictures showed instructional and spectacular skiing in the Green Mountains, the Rocky Mountains and the Alps.

A weekend excursion to Spirit-Savage was enjoyed by some of our members. Interfaculty ski races provided a fitting climax to a most active season.

Under the genial direction of Dr. Frank L. Harrison, the resident musician, the Glee Club has brought pleasure to its members. The annual concert has always been received by a small but enthusiastic group.

Our audience has been extended this year through more than one radio performance over CFRC. The singing of carols at Christmas, our work as choir for University Services, and the performance before the Music Club of Kingston all helped to round out a fine year's endeavour.

The Queen's Pipe Band has maintained its excellent record of activities and more firmly than ever an institution at this year.

Although the public appearances of the band were considerably reduced by the cessation of inter-collegiate sport, the staff of the band was greatly welcomed by the student body on the few occasions when the band was able to turn out with the C.O.I.C.

This year the band under the able leadership of Harvey Marshall held a very successful dance the proceeds of which went to buy much needed equipment.

The Queen's Pipe Band is practically unique in this continent, although the University of Toronto is organizing one this year.

It is to be hoped that true to our Scottish traditions the wind of the bagpipes will lighten the feet of future generations on the campus of Queen's.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

The International Relations Club seeks to create among students an informed opinion on world affairs. All students are invited to attend its meetings which this year have been adapted to suit increased C.O.T.C. work. Subjects and speakers are chosen in order to arouse worth-while discussion. This year's activities have naturally concentrated on war problems. In addition to the generous services of members of the faculty, the Club has been privileged to hear an address by the Polish Consul-General and to attend those by Dr. Niebuhr.

The Student Christian Movement at Queen's is one unit of a national organization, which in turn is part of the World Student Christian Federation. Its primary function is to study the Christ way, and to endeavour to follow it—a task which is particularly difficult when the conflict of ideals and armed force is occupying our thoughts and our conscience. Study groups meet regularly under faculty leadership to discuss the Records of the Life of Jesus, Music in Worship, Human Relations and the Rowell-Sirois Report. Informal Sunday evening firesides in faculty homes provide the opportunity for discussion and community. The S.C.M. on this campus was fortunate in numbering among its visitors Reinhold Niebuhr and Chao-Siu Tsai, as well as the two national secretaries, Margaret Kinney and Rev. Hugh MacMillan.

NEWMAN CLUB EXECUTIVE

The Newman Club of Queen's University is one doing much work among students of Canada and the United States for the purpose of bringing together Catholic students in secular universities. The functions of the club are twofold—religious and social.

To fulfil its first function the members attend Mass and prayer. Every Sunday there is a special Mass a breakfast and general meeting is held at which a prominent guest speaker is usually present.

The club's social activities consisted of a Christmas Reception Party in the fall and numerous social evenings throughout the year.

The University Service Commission is a standing committee of the Alma Mater Society and arranges a monthly student service in Great Hall. The Commission is inter-denominational in character and brings to the campus outstanding clergymen of various faiths. The past few services were held with members of the Theological Society leading the worship and men of different faculties helping in other details. The Star Club supplies music and Dr. H. B. Brown was the regular organist.

In the second term the A.M.S. gave the Commission responsibility for conducting the national appeal of International Student Service and this was successfully carried out.

MECHANICALS CLUB

Started in 1938 and composed solely of Sc. '40, the Mechanicals Club expanded in the next year to consist of both 3rd and 4th year Mechs.

The 1940-41 club enjoyed a successful year. In October, the first dinner meeting was held, at which Mr. Wolfe, a new Mech. instructor, was guest speaker. A plan was inaugurated by which student members would give talks on their summer work. J. Van Damme opened the series.

Tours of Frost & Wood in Smiths Falls and of Phillips Electrical Works in Brockville were made by the club in January. Activities ended for the year with the banquet meeting in March.

The Mining and Metallurgical Society was reorganized in 1921, after being dormant during the World War of 1914-18, and has carried on actively ever since.

The aims of the Society are to aid in the professional education and standing of its members. This is achieved by the presentation of student papers, by talks from men of experience on subjects of value to the members, by the showing of suitable films, and by affiliation with the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

Mr. G. C. Bateman, Metals Controller for Canada, and President of the C.I.M.M., was guest speaker at the annual banquet and smoker held on January 24th.

QUEEN'S STUDENT BRANCH, C.I.C.

The Queen's Branch of the Canadian Institute of Chemistry is a club directly affiliated with the nation wide Canadian Institute of Chemistry.

The student membership is limited to those in third or fourth year who are interested in chemistry. However an associate student membership provides for interested first and second year men. The club aims to obtain for its regular meetings speakers who are outstanding in their field. The topics are of a theoretical nature, but of definite interest to those looking for practical side of chemistry.

The Civils Club catering to all Science students who are interested in Civil Engineering. Its purpose is to increase the interest and knowledge of its members in this subject by means of discussion, field trips and the presentation of addresses by practical engineers. The proposed programme for 1941-42 had to be largely curtailed because of the extra time taken up for military training. In spite of the difficulty in securing suitable arrangements a few very interesting and instructive addresses were heard and several field trips were possible. The year closed with the annual banquet in March.

QUEEN'S PRESS CLUB

The Queen's Press Club was founded in order to provide a means of bringing together all who have written for the Journal. It is by its very nature the reporters' club, and its object is to help them with their writing and aid them in getting to know one another better.

The Club has a warthy past, for its first president was Herb Hamilton. It has, at its meetings, presented eminent journalists, who have given many suggestions that have helped young reporters with their writing. In this regard Mr. F. C. Beaudry and Mr. Coyle, both of the Whig-Standard, addressed the club on appropriate subjects during the term.

Q.S.A. is an organization that seeks to integrate and co-ordinate all the activities on the campus. Although established only three years ago as a branch of the Canadian Student Assembly, it has already more than justified its function in the life of the University.

In co-operation with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics Q.S.A. circulated a campus-wide questionnaire based on the economic background of the students. Thanks for your support A.M.S. and Faculties! The campaign for greater financial aid to students was continued, emphasizing National Scholarships and co-operative residences.

CAMERA CLUB

During the 1940-41 session, the Levana Debating Society was active both in the field of inter-collegiate debating and on the campus.

Early in December a strong team from McMaster was victorious over Gertrude Goodall and Jean Nesbitt on the topic: Resolved that Canada should become a member of the Pan-American Union. Upholding the Opposition on the same issue, a Queen's team consisting of Dorothy Wardle and Jean McKinley was defeated by a narrow margin at Varsity.

This year a series of very successful and interesting debates between Levana debaters and speakers from the Union, was held in Douglas Library.

MEN'S DEBATING UNION

The 1943-44 season of the Debating Union has been one of enthusiasm and vigorous activity on the part of its members.

Numerous house debates on popular subjects have interested the general audience. This can be attributed partly to the M. C. Campbell Debates which are to be awarded at the end of the year to the best speaker.

Intercollegiate debates have been held with University of Victoria College and McGill. The four faculties have again voted for the Intercollegiate Debating Shield which U.V. won last year.

In our second year of war time activities we find the Queen's Drama Guild carrying on an inspired drive for the benefit and entertainment of our fighting forces. Lecturing, dancing, lighting, staging, voice production, make-up, and a host of other things of the theatre were given by Dr. Wm. Angus, Mrs. Reid, and Harold Miller.

Before the close of the first term "Charles of Anjou" was made production was on its way. This proved a colossal amount of work and required the combined efforts of the entire guild. To this was added the work of product plans taken to Hantsville, the local Y.M.C.A., and the Air Force camp.

MEDICAL FORMAL

True to tradition, the Formal season at Queen's was opened in a blaze of glory by the Meds at their annual At Home on November 8th, 1940.

Taking as their theme "An Evening in Bermuda", the stage in Grant Hall was fittingly decorated to represent a scene in that enchanting playland. In keeping with the theme, the Meds were able to secure Cliff McKay's orchestra for the occasion. This fine company of musicians had recently returned from an engagement at Belmont Manor, Bermuda. Seated on a moonlit beach under waving palms, they dispensed their rhythms to the enjoyment of all.

Retaining the usual quiet dignity so typical of the Meds' Formal, the dance this term will long be remembered as one of the most successful staged in recent years.

ARTS FORMAL

Grant Hall, with intricately designed bandstands and witty fluted ferns and palms, set the scene for the first visit to Queen's of Mart Kerney and his Western Gentlemen. It was the Arts Formal of 1941.

The Formal will be memorable for many things, among them the superbly danceable music of Mart Kerney, the band's repertoire of comic novelties, and Mart's arrangement of Oil Thigh and the new Queen's Victory March. Thus the combination of smooth rhythms, soft lighting, and many comfortable chesterfields made the Formal one of the best.

LEVANA FORMALS

Dancing by candle light to the strains of Moxie Whitney's orchestra; mirrors everywhere reflecting graceful couples; ballrooms decorated in turquoise and silver; cornucopias filled with flowers; delicious refreshments; these were the 1940-41 Levana Formals.

SCIENCE FORMAL

February 14th this year climaxed the social activities of the year at Science. Lin Harkins "Caridas Young Man with a Revolt" next from the Chateau Laurier, provided the musical accompaniment to the symphony in silver provided by the demonstrators in another formal Science Formal. From ten until four the Engineers, their guests, and their lady friends danced to smooth music in a classical setting of Greek pillars and the Temple of Mercury.

Highlight of the decorations were a genuine revolving water-fountain, a Greek Parthenon, and a massive twelve-point crystal star.

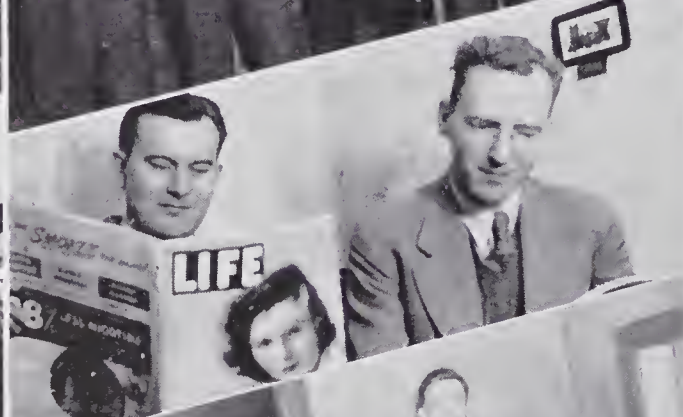

All in all, the Science Formal was not only one of the most successful Formals of the year but one of the best at all Science At Homes.

RADIO CLUB

Up until the past two years, the Radio Club has been active in keeping Queen's University well known in all parts of North America and Europe through the medium of its short wave station VESVX.

It is interesting to note that to many of our fellow "hams" in the U.S. it was news that Queen's was in our own fair Kingdom and not, as they were always told, in the big city of Toronto.

The past year has seen the club with an active membership of less than two dozen, but nevertheless carrying on limited radio activities, handicapped as we are by the Government ban on amateur broadcasting for the period of the war.

Featured in its program have been technical talks by experts on their own line, among them Dick Perry, Harry Clark, Professor H. H. Stewart, of the Electrical Engineering Department, and other radio engineers for the university's CFRC.

We the members feel that we are rebalancing the formula on all radio amateurs by attempting to keep alive a society which is one of the most interesting and flourishing clubs in the time of peace.

the House Council. In other fields Agnes Richardson convened the Mirror Ball, which went with the Arts Formal, so successfully handled this year by Pete Munford. And on the staff of the Journal were Lorna Breckon and Lydia Klein.

The Journal itself was pretty well a production of Arts '41 this year with Gary Bowell, Jack Houck and Murdoch Maclean at the top of the masthead and the services of Bill Lawrence and Art Parniter in past years have not been forgotten.

The accumulated experience and native wisdom of Arts '41 is perhaps exemplified in its choice, from its most competent members, of final and permanent executives, both under the presidency of Ed Barka, and including such names as Joy Lewis, Marygrove Howie, Gary Bowell and Ken Carty.

The future of '41 is thought to be good, but to be real only comes as it is a physical thing. Graduation is not only the end of a glorious year of four years, it is rather the beginning of a much longer and more strenuous period. The future may be dark, but surely Queen's has given us a modest confidence in ourselves as lay in living, intellectual and physical, which may conquer no matter how dark the present, how distant the future. The spirit of '41 will go marching on at Queen's, and the members of '41 may be trusted to keep the spirit of Queen's at which we are so justly proud, marching on in a world which has great need of it.

Finally, late news has it that Arts '41 claimed upon this year's intercollegiate and interfaculty hockey—most work!

ENTRANCE TO EXPERIENCE

BEHIND this portal, on Randrill Street in Sherbrooke, Quebec, stand the engineering works of an organization that for nearly sixty years has made important contributions to the progress of Canadian Industry.

THE products of these works have aided in the development of Canada's mines, forests and streams; the construction of her highways and railroads; and in the operation of her factories, shops and mills.

GRADUATES of many Canadian universities enter these doors, in their turn to gain rich experience in research, design, development and manufacturing, and to grow with the Company in production, sales or administrative capacities.

We are proud of the fact that Queen's undergraduates have gained experience, during summer months, in our shops, and that Queen's graduates have taken their place in our organization.

A trade mark of good machinery; a symbol that has become synonymous with the progress of Canada.

"Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."— Churchill

The price of freedom comes high . . . in lives, in personal sacrifice, in hard cold dollars. Millions are needed now . . . to feed, clothe and equip the men who guard the citadel of freedom.

At this fateful hour it is the plain duty of every working Canadian to SAVE, that Canada may play her part worthily in this struggle for freedom and human decency.

Invest in War Savings Certificates regularly.

Build up your savings Now . . . keep at it. Save for Victory.

"Brains" for Boulder Dam

THE steel-clad switchboards, "electrical brains" for the two new 82,500 kilowatt generators for Boulder Dam are being built by Westinghouse. Two new waterwheel generators, also Westinghouse built, will supplement eight existing machines of identical rating, in addition to three smaller generators previously installed, and give Boulder Dam the world's largest concentration of electrical power.

Constant progress in every field of electrical development has won for Westinghouse the confidence and respect of all who buy or use electrical equipment in commerce, industry, transportation or the home.

A NATIONAL ELECTRICAL SERVICE

IN 1882, the Company which is now Northern Electric was started in Montreal. Today a chain of 22 branch warehouses across Canada exemplify the development of this National Electrical Service. Northern Electric maintains manufacturing, distributing and merchandising services, vast in scope, varied in character and always keyed to meet the ever changing problems of tomorrow. Whichever equipment is required to generate, transform, distribute or use electricity for industrial, commercial, residential or any other purpose, it is available from any one of Northern Electric's strategically located branches across this wide Dominion.

—or if you take up a professional career be sure to get a background of the rudiments of Business.

In the former you have the prospect of position, salary and promotion; in the latter your professional ability is enhanced by your broader understanding of business matters.

In either case a Course in Business subjects at Shaw Schools is highly desirable for the University Graduate. The Shaw training is individual, adapted to your capacity for study and time at your disposal.

Shaw Courses lead to well paid Secretarial or Business administrative positions.

There are 12 SHAW Day and Night Schools in Toronto; also the SHAW Correspondence School which provides many Home Study Courses.
